

I am writing regarding the decision to expand LPFM services in a fashion that will give them a priority over FM translator stations. As an Active-duty Naval Officer, my family and I frequently move to areas of the country that are serviced by the KLOVE radio station, a Nationally broadcast radio station utilizing FM translator stations to broadcast modern Christian music and programming. Should these broadcasts be become forced off the air by LPFM stations that DO NOT support broadcasting Christian music and programming, communities will go without programming that is family friendly and supportive of Christian values. With widespread decay of Christian values in our communities, we need stations such as KLOVE provide a positive and morally upright message to all who listen. The popularity of Christian programming is skyrocketing, and as previously mentioned, is well needed. With so many radio stations carrying programming that is inappropriate for children (and adults for that matter) it is refreshing to have an outlet that facilitates a positive message while professing a moral lifestyle. Please give consideration to the decision to allow LPFM stations to have priority over FM translator services. It will NOT be in the best interest of the public.
